

Merry Christmas

Hi All-

No COVID update today. Instead, I wanted to wish you a Merry Christmas!

The holidays are tough for a lot of people, and that's especially true this year. I consider myself to be incredibly fortunate, but that doesn't stop me from being incredibly forgetful, at times, and losing sight of what really matters. I suspect all of us do that on occasion, and frankly, it's been pretty easy to do given the loss, uncertainty, and unprecedented change we've all experienced. This year, I'm making a conscious effort to give to others that of which I find myself most in need – grace, patience, and understanding. And this holiday season, I'm refocusing my attention towards the love and friendships I count among my greatest blessings. I hope you're able to celebrate the season in a way that brings you peace and comfort.

No matter how you celebrate the holiday season, I hope your blessings are many, your worries are few, and your joy is endless.

Merry Christmas!

Josh
